TextWindy Creek, Foggy and Easy Pass (Unit 16, 17)

Most creeks and rivers in the upper valleys flow through glacial valleys and along river bars. Higher elevations covered with dry tundra. Dense stands of willow, dwarf birch, and alders are common at lower elevations. Good habitat for bears and moose. Many raptor sites throughout the region (eagle nests). Moose wintering habitat and wolf dens. There are 5 cabins.

Encounter rates are low to moderate. Opportunities for remote, self-reliant travel. Wilderness experience is very good when not degraded by frequent air traffic and noise from snowmachines to the south. Accessible in winter for non-motorized recreation.
